"Lisa's presentations are always popular with our employees. She is a wealth of knowledge on the topics of both organization and balance. Her tips on paper management and home and office organization are relevant to all. As a speaker, she is both professional and personable. We offer her interactive talks as part of our wellness and work/life program because the benefits of having organized spaces at home and at work positively impact mental well-being and productivity."

"Working with Lisa was such a delight! She was a guest speaker at the 9th annual South County Hospital Women's Wellness Day, a day of inspiration, fun, and learning for more than 200 women. Lisa presented one of our breakout sessions, drawing in nearly half the women in attendance to her presentation. Not many people have a gift for orating, but Lisa is one of them. Her speaking skills are exceptional, engaging the audience and presenting in a manner that allowed each guest to take away useful information. Feedback from our audience indicated that they want her back at next year's event—and so do we!"
